

NBPR introduces

Private Basketball Lessons

Attention Coaches Youth- Teens –Adults

Customized personal instruction for players ages 5 and over, wanting to learn or refine basketball skills or enter a more competitive level of play. Private lessons will revolve around the specific needs of each participant. Based on instructor and facility availability, pre-arrange times to fit your schedule.

Meet the Instructors:

Aaron Wimsett has been teaching and coaching basketball for the past 12 years. Aaron started teaching basketball classes for the City of New Brighton in 2004 and has thoroughly enjoyed watching his students improve and grow. Aaron has experience working with the Irondale Basketball Association (IBA), Amateur Athletic Union (AAU) and the Minnesota Youth Athletic Services (MYAS). Corrie Floyd grew up playing basketball and continued to play through high school. He has coached youth and high school basketball athletes in fundamental camps and summer developmental leagues. He believes that the key to being a successful basketball player requires a solid understanding of the basics and a well-rounded skillset for offense and defense. His past experiences with plyometric, conditioning, agility, and flexibility are also an emphasis in his coaching. Corrie loves helping hardworking athletes improve and strives to keep things fun!

Progressive Session Criteria:

- Defensive
- Agility and speed
- Plyometrica
- Overall fundamental Skills (dribbling, passing, shooting, and control)
